In this rotation, I have learnt some simple photo editing skills in photoshop and gone through about abstract photographics and vortograph.

Then I need to use these skills to make a collage with 3 pictures that I have taken. I have taken about 30 photographs during my path to home. It is quite interesting to shoot in some angles that we usually can't see. This makes the world seems different from how it used to be and allows me to find out more about the surrounding that I neglected.

On the left hand side is the picture I made. My concept is "escape". In the picture you can see there is a cliff and you need to jump through a cage in front of it to reach the outside world. The edges of the cage is not clear and blurry indicates that one wants to escape from something but he/ she don't know what is it. There is a cliff shows that one need enough courage to make a jump to break through the difficult situation.

I am quite satisfied with my work. Although I am not familiar working on photoshop, the outcome is better than I thought.
